

Abstract

The invention relates to a honeycomb seal (10), which is manufactured by powder metallurgical injection molding. The honeycomb seal (10) is composed preferably of several segments. Each segment is embodied as a single piece and has a base element (12) as well as honeycomb elements (13) that are embodied as single piece with the base element (12).

(Fig. 1)